

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF PHARMACEUTICAL & MEDICINAL RESEARCH (IJPMR): A New Open-Access Journal

Health care is one of the most critical areas of today's world, where almost every country experiencing a gap between need and available resources. The world of healthcare is changing, because we are reaching new frontiers never seen before in the history of our profession. Public health and primary health care are avenues that pharmacists are increasingly involved in across the world. These new expansions of the profession can give pharmacists a better chance to impact on health care and have greater responsibility for patient outcomes.

It is with pleasure that we introduce the first issue of online journal "International journal of Pharmaceutical & Medicinal Research (IJPMR)". The aim of the journal is to be a leading specialist reference resource of pharmaceutical and medicinal research, highlighting cutting-edge research, new concepts and theories, and fresh practical ideas and initiatives. It includes research papers, review articles, short communication, case studies, and technical note to serves as an innovative practice reference for managers in the pharmaceutical industries, offering insights, techniques and strategies.

Our mission is to position IJPMR as the leading journal in the field of pharmaceutical and medicinal science which will provide a strong platform for scholars/Scientist to publish their research ideas and scientific knowledge.

My best wishes to editorial team members and authors.

With regards
Editor in chief
